DIFFICULTIES STILL AHEAD WITH RUSSIA

Without Policy Changes, East-West Split Cannot Be Closed, Officials Declare

NEW ISSUE IS CREATED

BULLETIN
New York, April 29.—(P)—Representatives of the United States and Russia will meet here at 4 p. m. today on the Berlin blockade question. The meeting will be in the Soviet headquarters on Upper Park avenue between Philip C. Jessup, U. S. Ambassador-at-Large, and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A. Malik. They met there last on Wednesday. Today's meeting was requested by Malik. This may mean the Soviet representative has received a written reply from Moscow to a request which Jessup made Wednesday for a formal declaration of Russia's position on lifting the blockade. However, a U. S. spokesman said he had no knowledge whether Malik had received a reply.

Washington, April 29.—(P)—Diplomatic authorities said today that great difficulties lie in the way of full agreement between Russia and the western powers on the unification and joint control of all Germany.

They took this view despite hope for an early end to the Russian blockade of Berlin. Official statements, including Secretary Acheson's speech in New York last night, are making it increasingly clear that without basic policy changes by Russia, the east-west split in Germany cannot be closed. So far there is no evidence that such policy changes are in prospect.

The talks held to date by American Ambassador Philip Jessup and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob Malik are reported to have dealt only with the problem of lifting the blockade and arranging a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers but not with what the foreign ministers might accomplish.

The fact is that Washington officials regard the possible meeting as a testing ground of the ability of Russia and the American-British-French bloc to reach any constructive agreement. Possible abolition of the blockade is anticipated here as a western victory in a single battle of a continuing cold war.

Insofar as the opportunity for Russia and the western powers to meet is concerned, the lifting of the blockade would restore the situation to about what it was a year ago before the Soviets sought to isolate Berlin.

BUSINESS INCREASE REPORTED FOR AREA

Pittsburgh, April 29.—(P)—A business increase in the Pittsburgh district last week was attributed to better-than-seasonal retail sales. The University of Pittsburgh's Bureau of Business Research reported its index rose from 190.4 per cent of the 1935-39 average in the week ended April 16 to 193.5 per cent last week. It was 188.6 per cent in the comparable week of 1948.

Dewey Said to Nurse Desire For New Try at White House

Albany, N. Y., April 29.—(P)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who hit the dust twice in running for president, nurses a deep-down desire for another shot at the White House.

This came out today when an unimpeachable source, thoroughly familiar with Dewey's views, disclosed that the 1944 and 1948 Republican standard bearer, contrary to frequent reports, has not decided to return to private life when his gubernatorial term ends Dec. 31.

Democratic Leaders Predict Truman Victory In Labor Law Showdown In House Today

Washington, April 29.—(P)—A house leader said privately today President Truman "lost votes" for the administration labor bill by trying it in with political patronage in a news conference statement.

Miss Coplon's Boss Is Called As a Witness

Washington, April 29.—(P)—The government called two key witnesses today in the Judith Coplon espionage trial.

One is William E. Foley, who was Miss Coplon's boss in the Justice Department. He was called to testify about a half true, half false FBI report the prosecution says he showed her the day of her arrest.

In his opening statement yesterday, Raymond P. Wherry, a prosecutor, said handwritten notes from the report were found in Miss Coplon's purse when she was arrested in New York with Valentine A. Gubitch, a Russian.

Revised Compensation Act Reaches Desk of Gov. Duff

Harrisburg, April 29.—(P)—Administration legislation liberalizing Pennsylvania's compensation laws reached Gov. James H. Duff today.

The measure provides for maximum weekly benefits of $25 instead of actual earnings as the basis for determining how much aid shall be paid by industry to workers who are disabled by injury or illness on the job.

Left unsettled as final adjournment of the general assembly neared was the question of whether jobs benefits for workers on part time should be calculated on a money or time lost basis.

A combination of Republican and Democratic votes wrote the time-loss proposal into a senate measure changing the system of calculating payroll taxes for unemployment compensation, but the senate refused to accept it. A conference committee was named to iron out the differences.

The Workers' compensation measure sent to the governor also would require employers to buy appliances for injured workers and would extend the period for medical care for 30 days.

BRICKLAYERS STRIKE

Butler, April 29.—(P)—Strike of about 70 members of the AFL-Bricklayers' Union, local 62, tied up a million dollars' worth of construction in Butler county today.

Other workers declined to cross picket lines. The bricklayers asked a 25-cent-an-hour pay raise, which would bring their pay to $2.75 hourly.

TOWN NORTH OF HANGCHOW IS CAPTURED

Communist Troops Seize Wuhing, Key Point On Approach to Shanghai

ONE FORCE CHECKED

Shanghai, April 29.—(P)—Communist troops today seized Wuhing, a key point 40 miles north of Hangchow, the main prop for Shanghai.

Wuhing is 36 miles west of Kashiing, control point on the Shanghai-Hangchow railroad. Kashiing, 62 miles southwest of Shanghai, was in the path of a Red column driving south from Soochow (Wuhsien).

A Nationalist communiqué said a Red column of 3,000 men appeared to be a move to protect the flank of the southbound columns.

It asserted the force coming from the west had been checked about 37 miles west of the metropolis near Kunshan, on the Shanghai-Nanking railway. Trains to Kunshan had quit running.

The Shanghai garrison reported the capture of Wuhing now were advancing south toward Hangchow. It earlier had reported the Communist 23rd army was operating in this region.

It appears that the main Red push is aimed now at Hangchow, not Shanghai. With the capture of Hangchow, Shanghai would be sealed off by land.

This could mean that an attack on Shanghai will be a strong force of government troops was deployed between Hangchow and the Reds in the north.

The garrison said the Reds were headed toward Wuhang, 25 miles northwest of Hangchow. The communiqué quoted Red prisoners as saying Communist troops who crossed the Yangtze had only three days' rations and were "without supply stations."

The garrison charged the Communists were looting the countryside in occupied areas, searching for food.

Vice Admiral Oscar C. Badger, commander of the Western Pacific fleet, said U. S. Navy forces would be retained at Woosung as long as needed "in the safe evacuation of American nationals from Shanghai."

DIFFERENCES OVER BUS LAW IRONED OUT

Harrisburg, April 29.—(P)—A conference committee today ironed out the final differences over legislation to require automobile traffic to halt for school buses on Pennsylvania's highways.

The conferees sat down to draft an agreement that the Department of Public Instruction and Revenue and the State Police Commissioner work out the best way of marking buses owned by public utilities which carry school pupils.

As passed by the senate, such buses would be required to be painted the chrome color of regular school buses but would have to bear signs indicating they were used to transport pupils.

Quezons Slain in Guerrilla Ambush

Mrs. Manuel Quezon, left, widow of the Philippines' first president, daughter, Maria Aurora, right, and her grand son were killed in a machine-gun ambush of their car near Manila. Nine other members of their party enroute to the dedication of a hospital to the late president were slain, and 10 others wounded. President Elpidio Quirino ordered an immediate campaign against the killers, identified as mountain bandits.

Angry Constabulary Pushes Hunt for Philippine Killers

Manila, April 29.—(P)—Hukbalahaps identified as the slayers of Mrs. Aurora Quezon and 11 others were engaged in a battle by Philippine soldiers and constabulary today.

Gen. Alberto Ramos, chief of the Philippine constabulary, said the battle had been under way since last night in the Sierra Madre mountains.

The Communist led armed peasants were identified by Lt. Col. Angel Magallanes, Nueva Ecija provincial commander of the constabulary as the slayers of the widow of the Philippines' first president. He said the Hukbalahaps were led by Col. Alejandro Viterbo, a veteran bandit.

The Quezon party was ambushed while traveling in the Sierra Madre mountain area yesterday. A few hours earlier a crowd estimated at 100,000 lined Manila streets to witness the Quezon funeral procession.

President Quirino, serving as a pallbearer, placed a single flower on the casket before it was put in place. Quirino was seen weeping as a few moments later he knelt before the nearby tombs of a Quezon daughter—Maria Aurora—and a son-in-law, Felipe Bualan, both of whom were slain in the ambush.

Their bodies, along with other victims, were brought down from the mountain country under armed escort.

There were cries from congressmen for martial law in the Huk country north of Manila, where the slayings occurred yesterday.

That land of violence produced a second ambush in the same general area only a few hours after Mrs. Quezon's party was waylaid. Mayor David Ventura of Santa Rosa, two members of the Philippine constabulary, and a civilian were reported killed.

Brig. Gen. Alberto Ramos, head of the constabulary, flew north and took charge of the manhunt. There was official reluctance to identify the attackers as the armed peasants under Communist command who go by the name of Hukbalahaps.

But Manila newspapers and most citizens agreed with Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, delegate to the United Nations. Stopping in San Francisco, he said he believed the Huk committed the killings.

President Elpidio Quirino blamed the Manila newspapers, saying he thought he may have been the object of the ambush. He had planned to join the Quezon party but said at the last minute he was unable to go.

EFFORT UNDER WAY TO BREAK LEGISLATIVE DEADLOCK OVER AMOUNT OF BREAKAGE FEES

Harrisburg, April 29.—(P)—A big obstacle to final adjournment of the 1949 general assembly was raised today in the senate.

That barrier, reported a recommendation of its conference committee, seemed 22-21 to drop a proposed allowing beer distributors a breakage fee amounting to $2,300,000 in two years.

The senate inserted the provision in the bill renewing the state's $20,000,000 beer tax of one-half cent a pint for two years. The house refused to accept it and a conference committee has been trying to reach agreement on the dispute for six weeks.

Another dispute, however, was settled. The Republican majority on another conference committee struck out of an unemployment compensation bill a provision permitting coal miners and other workers employed two or three days a week to become eligible for jobless benefits.

"We're going to stick," commented Rep. Charles H. Brunner, Jr., the Republican floor leader on the beer tax controversy. The senate, by rejecting its committee's recommendation, to drop the breakage refund, took the same stand.

Both house and senate went into day-long sessions expected to go into the night to tie together loose ends of the four-month session. They had expected to clean up tonight or tomorrow but the deadlock on the beer breakage refund threw the situation up in the air.

Gov. James H. Duff won out today in his fight for a $15,000,000 state housing program despite bitter end opposition from conservative Republican elements.

The victory came in the closing hours of the 1949 session of the General Assembly which saw some of the sharpest criticism of the Republican executive's program come from members of his own party.

"It amounts to nothing more or less than state Socialism," asserted Sen. George N. Wade (R-Cum-berland) in a last-ditch attempt to state of approval of the plan.

But only he and four other GOP senators voted against it. Thirty-one Republicans and fifteen Democrats passed the program 45-5.

Only house agreement on a senate amendment to one of the seven bills remained to complete legislative action.

In urging the housing legislation months ago, Senator Wade said it was necessary if low rental homes are to be built for Pennsylvanians.

It provides for flat state subsidies to private builders and housing authorities to pay up to 35 per cent of construction costs on low rental housing units. Veterans will get preference as tenants. In addition, cities can choose to use up to $4,500,000 of the fund for slum clearance and urban redevelopment projects.

The house, at the same time, wrote the final chapter in session-long dispute over local taxes. It approved 133-60 a senate measure having levies on coal or other natural resources, farm and manufacturing products and imposing ceilings on permissive taxes on localities.

Effort Made To Head Off A Ford Strike

Detroit, April 29.—(P)—A top-level union team was dispatched to the Ford Motor Company's sprawling Rouge main plant today to confirm or refute strike-threatening speed-up charges.

Hungry in the balance was a possible walkout of 60,000 CIO United Auto Workers that would tie up virtually the entire Ford industrial system and could upset the UAW's spring bargaining drive.

A strike of 6,000 employees at Ford's Lincoln-Mercury plant was authorized by the UAW's executive board yesterday to start May 1. Similar sanction was denied the Rouge plant workers pending today's inquiry. Both disputes involve production speed-up complaints.

But negotiations aimed at heading off walkouts were resumed after previous talks had failed.

Lincoln-Mercury walkout probably would have little effect on either overall Ford production or the union's industry-wide campaign for pensions, medical care programs and wage increases. This drive is scheduled to start with Ford May 16.

UAW leaders were hopeful at least that a Rouge plant strike involving ten times as many workers as at Lincoln, could be averted.

President Walter Reuther told the union's 100-man National Ford Council:

"Don't let anyone get us on a detour or the main road clearly lies ahead."

The Council is framing final demands on Ford which will launch the UAW's 1949 campaign.

Reuther said the UAW expects to have $4,000,000 in its treasury for use in the showdown in this year's bargaining.

Drive on to Slice Spending Program

Washington, April 29.—(P)—Republican senators, encouraged by an upset victory, today drove to shut down President Truman's plan to slash federal spending program all along the line.

This, they hope to kill off any federal tax increases this year.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), spearheaded the successful economy campaign which late yesterday won a $2,400,000,000 money bill back to the senate appropriations committee with instructions to cut it.

A solid bloc of 36 Republicans got inexperted aid from eight Democrats to turn that trick and tradition not to send appropriation bills back to committee, voting against the motion were 37 Democrats.

Most senators thought they were voting for a cutback of about $15,000,000. But experts on senate bills say the plan actually may include well over $200,000,000 previously added to the bill but dropped off by its return to committee.

FLAN CEREMONIES AT DONEMAUH MAY 9th

Pittsburgh, April 29.—(P)—Ground-breaking ceremonies for the $44,200,000 Copemauh flood control dam May 9 are expected to attract thousands of persons.

Thousands of persons are expected to attend the ceremony. The dam is to be built on the Allegheny River between Saltsburg and Blairsville. The first shovel of earth will be turned by Gov. James H. Duff.

Army engineers, congressmen, mayors and county commissioners from Indiana, Allegheny and Westmoreland counties will participate.

Salty Sentences Given Men For Assault on Jail Warden

Two young men who allegedly beat up Warden William Dirling in an unsuccessful attempt to break out of the Warren county jail last Saturday night drew salty sentences when they entered county pleas in Warren county court today.

Judge Allison D. Wade sentenced Robert L. Irwin, Jr., 22, of Girard, formerly of Warren, and a soldier, Clifford L. Barnes, 18, formerly of Youngsville, to one to three years in the Western Penitentiary on charges of aggravated assault and battery.

They also were fined $30 and costs each.

Sentencing of Irwin on a larceny charge was deferred. Irwin's father, Robert Irwin, Sr., who was being held in jail on a charge of accessory after the fact, was ordered to pay a $25 fine and costs, and was placed on probation for two years. He had sided in with the warden when his son and Barnes assaulted him in the corridor of the county jail, Sheriff L. (Turn to Page Eight)

TWO ARE KILLED IN TURNPIKE COLLISION

Somerset, April 29.—(P)—Samuel Freedman, about 70, of Harrisburg, and Arthur Tomello, 49, Brooklyn, N. Y., were killed and four other persons badly injured in a head-on collision on the Pennsylvania Turnpike yesterday on the Laurel Hill tunnel.

The injured, all in Somerset Hospital, were Freedman's wife, Mrs. Mary Freedman; Vito Cardella, Frank DeFilippo, and Joseph Stano, all of Brooklyn.

Stennis has said that Coleman had no interest in the pincer or control over it at the time the attacks were made.

For McGrath the Coleman appointment apparently represents a test of his viewpoint that senators and representatives who didn't openly fight the president should share in patronage even if they (Turn to Page Eight)

Former Movie Star Extra Is Figure in Real Life Story

Columbus, O., April 29.—(P)—A former Hollywood movie extra was the central figure today in a real life story involving scores of safe-cracking jobs.

Kenneth L. Scott, 29, whose only bid to screen renown was bit parts as a card player, boasted a better record as a safe burglar.

"I'm the third best safe-cracker in the country and I'm not sure the other two are better," he told Detective Stacy R. Hall.

Detectives at first regarded skeptically Scott's boasting, but he soon proved his ability by opening a "crack-proof" safe in about five minutes.

Hall said the Hollywoodite was arrested yesterday in a tourist camp east of Columbus. Also arrested was Thomas N. Reilly, 28, of Darby, Pa., who Scott described as his "apprentice."

Hall said the men admitted breaking into 11 safes in Columbus. They are to be held against them today.

Los Angeles police reported Scott was wanted there for jumping bond. He was accused of burglarizing 79 safes in a grocery store of some $65,000 in loot, the California police said.

"I've grossed better than a quarter of a million dollars," Scott casually remarked. He had hastily added, "I've been confined for some time that this business doesn't pay."

Los Angeles police records showed him as a movie extra who played card dealer roles.

Regardless of his movie ability, Detective Hall said Scott is "the best safe man that ever hit this town."

ASSEMBLY CORRECTS $6,000,000 OVERSIGHT

Harrisburg, April 29.—(P)—A $6,000,000 oversight was corrected by the general assembly.

A bill was sent to Gov. James H. Duff restoring carbonated water to the state's soft drink tax.

The action added $6,000,000 to the estimated revenue from that levy, bringing the two year take to $28,000,000.

NEWSPAPER HAS FIRE

Geneva, O., April 29.—(P)—Damage estimated at $100,000 resulted from a fire last night at the Geneva Free Press. Carroll E. Bartlett, managing editor of the daily paper, said the plant's equipment was a total loss and that the building suffered heavily.

Firemen from Ashtabula, Madison and Geneva-on-the-Lake aided local firemen. Bartlett planned to publish the paper on schedule in a neighboring plant today.

Hives Raided By Bruin At East Branch

Titusville Herald: A bear and his honey were soon parted at East Branch over the week-end, but not before he satisfied his sweet tooth.

Last Friday night a black bear raided Ivan Eastman's apiary, tore one hive apart and ate the honey.

Saturday night he returned and ripped into another hive. That honey was also eaten.

The third night several men of the neighborhood sat up on watch. Sure enough, the bear came back again. When a flashlight beam was thrown into his eyes, Mr. Bruin beat a quick retreat. The chase led up and around the nearby cemetery, but the ruckus speeded his heels and away he went.

Game Protectors Don E. Miller of Titusville and James L. Latimer of Corry were notified. With honey and meat they baited a live bear trap of the type used for rabbits but built on a much larger scale.

Then they waited. And waited. No bear returned to sample the bait or the remaining three hives in the apiary, and the trap was still there last night.

Mr. Latimer told The Herald yesterday the bear sighted was of medium size. He could not account for its presence at East Branch, for "that is not bear country." The community is between Titusville and Spring Creek.

Perhaps after his winter's fasting the bear has wandered far afield from his usual haunts. Honey is where you find it these days.

Meanwhile the excitement has caused children of the community to stick close to their homes. As soon as it gets dark they are loath to venture outside. Everyone is hoping the bear will return soon, nose into the box trap and then be taken back where he belongs.

The region is in the territory of Protector Latimer, Protector Miller was called in because the law requires that two salaried officers of the Game Commission must fix an owner's recompense for damages in such cases. What the two officers agreed upon as to what Mr. Eastman should have for the loss of the two hives was not learned.

LOSES $2,300

Erie police had a new lead in the search for $2,300 in cash and checks reported lost Monday by Robert and Anna Hatch, in the testimony of an unidentified witness that he saw a man pick up the money and flee. Mrs. Hatch, a bookkeeper for the Cook Coffee Co., first reported the loss to police Monday afternoon. She said she had been enroute in the Hatch car from her home to the Security Peoples Bank, 801 State street, and had stopped to pay some bills at three places along the way. She discovered the loss, she said, on leaving the office of the Pennsylvania Telephone Co. She informed police the brown bank satchel containing the money had been in the car, in which her husband was sitting, and theorized that it may have fallen out when she alighted from the car.

SWALLOWS PIN

Two-year-old Donna Lee Over, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Over of 603 West Wayne street, Corry, was discharged from the Corry Hospital Thursday with physicians believing surgery will not be necessary to remove a straight pin from her stomach. X-ray pictures showed the pin in following a natural course and will not become lodged. The youngster was admitted to the institution when her parents found she had picked up the pin and swallowed it while playing on the floor. Fortunately, the pin fell into the stomach rather than the bronchial tubes, averting what probably would have been a serious condition.

Over Hundred At Crawford County Meet

Meadville, April 29—More than 123 persons, most of them social workers, attended the sessions on Thursday of the regional meeting of the Pennsylvania Welfare Conference. The theme of the meeting was "Juvenile Delinquency."

Judge Herbert A. Mook told the group that the solution to delinquency lies with the parents. "Parents should look upon the upbringing of a child as the most important job they've got," he stressed.

There should be a return to fundamental religious beliefs, an improvement in the moral character of women, and a changed outlook in the minds of life, he declared. There will not be a solution of juvenile delinquency until adults find solutions for the problems which beset adult society, the Judge said. That includes finding the means to establish the home as the center of a child's life.

In commenting on the marked decline on the moral character and fiber of women, he said: "I have been amazed at the divorce cases I have been reading to find the conduct of some women of this country. It has shocked me beyond description. More and more divorces are being obtained by men."

Representatives from Titusville, Tionesta, Enoch, Folk, Franklin, Bradford, Warren, St. Marys, Meadville, Erie, Mercer, and Greenville attended the meeting.

Mrs. Mary T. Denman, county secretary of the Public Charities Association, spoke about children's legislation that failed to pass the General Assembly. Miss Ruth Bonsteel, superintendent of the colored children's home at Pittsburgh addressed the group at noon concerning the methods used to deal with children in the home.

Rabbi Randall M. Falk, of Erie, said more attention should be given to the home.

UNUSUAL ANNIVERSARY

Our congratulations are extended to the officers and members of Warren Lodge No. 339, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the order in this city, which will be observed with a dinner and program Saturday evening.

Organized in February, 1849, the lodge is the oldest fraternal organization in the section. The fact that it has continued active now over one hundred years is a high tribute to the principals upon which the order is founded.

One hundred and thirty years ago, April 26, 1819, the first lodge of Odd Fellows was organized in America. Thomas Wildey, a native of England and five others, met in a room in a hotel in Baltimore, Md., and organized Washington Lodge No. 1, and Mr. Wildey was chosen noble grand of the new lodge.

From a writeup about a celebration in Warren in observance of the 80th anniversary of Odd Fellowship, April 26, 1899, we reprint the following information about the organization:

"From the humble beginning on that April day, eighty years ago, has sprung one of the great orders of the world—one that has been a boon to humanity in this and many other lands. There is a dispute as to the origin of Odd Fellowship. Some who are well posted declare that the order antedates the Christian era, and that the principles underlying the order were in practice centuries prior to the birth of the Savior. Others say Odd Fellowship is of more modern origin, but all agree that as a benevolent organization it has built a monument to which all can point with pride, and no true Odd Fellow has reason to be ashamed of his membership in such an order. It has not only been planted in every state and territory of the United States, but has spread out to Canada, British America, Mexico, Cuba, France, Germany, Switzerland, The Netherlands, New Zealand, New South Wales, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands, Chili, Peru and many other republics of South America. And all this from the lodge organized four-score years ago, and under the jurisdiction of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of America.

"We need not weary our readers with a long array of statistics as to the membership, the number of Orphans' Homes, and the vast sums of money paid for the relief of widows and orphans, care of the sick, and the burial of the dead. These facts are familiar to the average observer."

LIFTING THE BLOCKADE

In the opinion of J. M. Roberts, Jr., Associated Press foreign affairs analyst, "the lifting of the Berlin blockade will not mean that everything is beer and skittles for the Allies."

Talk that it may lead to the end of the cold war is highly tenuous.

Every manifestation of the Russian policy in the past points to the prospect that, if the blockade is lifted, it will be done in order that the battle for Germany may be re-joined on other fronts.

Russia has been losing this battle. The Allies have just put the Ruhr under international control without giving Moscow any say in its administration. A government for western Germany is rapidly taking shape. Germans who are not under the coercion of Red occupation show no desire to compromise with Communism. Germans in the Russian zone are complaining about the trade squeeze to which Russian policies have subjected them, and there are multitudinous reports of a similar reaction among the satellite countries of eastern Europe.

The Allies, in the case of the blockade, have met force with force, an easy thing requiring little mental nimbleness. With the end of the blockade the need for extreme diplomatic skill will return.

First, Moscow will take credit for a great peace move, adding it to the broad propaganda campaign they have been conducting for some time in an effort to convince people that the west, not Russia, is the prospective aggressor.

PHONE-Y MENACES

We see that the telephone company in New York City has renewed its old, unsuccessful battle to break people of saying "Hello" when they answer the phone. It is again suggested that the greeting be "This is Mr. Smith," or "Mr. Smith," or even just plain "Smith."

This effort will probably be as futile as the others. But we would like to suggest a drive against a less prevalent but vastly more annoying breed of telephoners. We refer to the coy creatures who, after you have said "Hello," reply with "Guess who this is."

A campaign to answer that challenge by hanging up immediately ought to be able to enlist a lot of supporters.

Sort of Embarrassing, Isn't It?

Here And There

Back in the spring of 1882 there was considerable comment and much excitement over the "Warren and Farnsworth" railroad which was being constructed. Of the several items that appeared in the Ledger at the time we reprint the following: "The Warren and Farnsworth narrow gauge railroad, starting at Clarendon and passing through the 646 district in Cherry Grove, has between 150 and 175 men engaged in grading and working all the way from Rockwell's tannery to Case Run, four and a half miles from the starting point. By the middle of next week there will be three hundred more men working, and the road will be opened up as far as the summit. The work is under the management of F. H. Towell. The construction engine and ears have been engaged. This is the road being built by Warren parties."

The "646 district" mentioned in the paragraph refers to a "mystery well" that was supposed to exist in the Cherry Grove section, which is given more prominence in an article in the Ledger of May 26, 1882, a portion of which follows: "Sixty-fourth-six has nearly driven Titusville crazy. She is afraid Warren is henceforth to be an oil metropolis, and her citizens are mad because they did not at first locate here. But not being able to move her possessions to Warren, the Herald is strongly advocating the construction of a narrow gauge railroad from that place to 646, thinking perhaps that will help her some and save a remnant of her past beauty and sweetness. As a small town perseveres there seems to be nothing like a narrow gauge railroad. If an oil town finds itself on her last leg she jumps up and calls for a narrow gauge railroad. Well, they are good things. We advise Titusville to build one to 646, and thence on to Erie. It will do her good, pay the expenses, and make our sister suburb happy. Sixty-fourth-six has revolutionized the whole country. On her account Garfield's name is to be perpetuated. It is called Garfield in memory of the late president. The town is near the well. Lots which sold a few days since for $2.00 a foot frontage, ran up to $5.00 and early in the week to $20.00. On account of the famous well people think differently, act differently. It has made fortunes for some, and ruined them for others. It has put down the price of oil so that the poor producer can't look forward to the time when he can realize a dollar a barrel for his oil. But a little over a week ago, a small producing well was considered worth having, today it is of no account. Bradford, Richburg and Titusville are disconsolate, the average producer is disconsolate."

Accepting German Trade Fair Showed Sense and Tolerance

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The first postwar German trade fair to be held in the United States closed in New York recently, with more than usual significance. The fair was arranged by the U. S. military government in Germany. Before the fair opened, there were a number of threats that it would be picketed, boycotted, run out of the country. But it ran a full two weeks at New York's Museum of Science and Industry in Rockefeller Plaza, with only two minor disturbances.

This record represents a victory for the tolerance and common sense of the American people in general and American Jewish organizations in particular. Objections to holding this fair came from several sources. First, Jewish war veterans opposed letting any German businessmen into America, since it was suspected they would all be ex-Nazis. Second, other Jewish organizations opposed promoting the sale of German manufactured goods in the United States. Third, American business groups feared German competition in U. S. and world markets. Admission of ex-Nazis was handled by the U. S. military government in Germany. It carefully screened all German businessmen wanting to come to America.

MILITARY government officials from Washington did considerable lobbying with prominent Jews to get their support for the fair. Leadership in most of the organizations saw the need for building up German exports.

Aim of the U. S. military government in arranging the fair was to promote the sale of German manufactured goods in the U. S. There is a selfish interest in this, from the American taxpayer's point of view. The U. S. government now supports the west German economy to the tune of about $1,100,000,000 a year. In 1948, exports from the three western zones of Germany amounted to about $660,000,000. That left a German trade deficit of $440,000,000.

The only way this unfavorable balance of trade can be reduced is by helping the Germans earn more, through the sale of their exports. The sale of orders of German products shown at the New York fair may have been disappointingly small. More than 500 German manufacturers from the American, British and French zones entered displays of their wares. They were principally cameras, ceramics, textiles, optical and consumer goods.

ABOUT half the goods shown were considered competitive to U. S. goods. The textiles were cheap in price, but poor in quality. They offer little threat to American business.

Since the end of the war, the U. S. military government authorities have been permitting American businessmen to go to Germany and re-establish prewar trade relations. Between 4000 and 5000 American businessmen have made these trips. But their progress has been slow.

The Leipzig trade fair was held in the Russian zone in 1947, but General Clay barred American zone participation in 1948. Last year, however, western German industries had exhibits at Milan and Stockholm international trade fairs, and they drew well. That led to the idea for the New York trade fair. It cost some $300,000 to put on. If it comes close to breaking even on sale of admission tickets and catalogs, it will probably be taken on tour to other U. S. buying centers.

Now that the German Ruhr, reparations and factory dismantling issues have been agreed upon, the Germans can begin to plan for their future in international trade, with some certainty.

In final analysis, all that the Marshall Plan operation now does is furnish western Germany and all the European Recovery program countries with goods they can't buy, because of low exports. The idea of having the United States buy more goods from Europe may come hard. But it is the only way to make Europe self-supporting.

ducer can't look forward to the time when he can realize a dollar a barrel for his oil. But a little over a week ago, a small producing well was considered worth having, today it is of no account. Bradford, Richburg and Titusville are disconsolate, the average producer is disconsolate."

MacKenzie's Column

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Russia's offer to call off the Berlin blockade continues to hold the lime-light in international speculation. The reason is of course that such a move might tend towards (whisper) an ending of the "cold war."

Diplomatic sources in Moscow said yesterday that the reopening of the Berlin question, if handled correctly, could lead to that happy goal. An American quarter remarked:

"Something is cooking. At this point it doesn't smell bad."

That non-committal summary reflects both hope and suspicion—a feeling which is mutual. Both sides are proceeding with the utmost caution.

The United States did make a positive move yesterday. This was delivery of a note by Philip C. Jessup, American ambassador-at-large, to Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A. Malik, in New York, asking the Russians for a formal statement as to when and on what conditions they would lift the blockade.

Back of this note is the real hope that the Muscovites mean business. There also is the suspicion that same ulterior purpose may be hidden in the offer—for instance the scuttling of the new German republic comprising the three western zones of occupation. Moscow has opposed this project hotly.

Obviously it isn't love of the hated capitalist democracies which has impelled Moscow to make this offer.

Wes Gallagher, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Berlin, writes:

"Soviet overtures to lift the Berlin blockade represent a diplomatic defeat for the Kremlin—perhaps the most crushing it has suffered since the end of World War II. Soviet bid to control all of Europe has failed. Communism and the Soviet Union are on the defensive in Europe."

Certainly the indications are that the Communist drive to sweep across western Europe to the English Channel reached a dead end some time ago. The signing of the Atlantic Pact put the finishing touches on a barrier which the Muscovites couldn't hope to breach. The time had come for consolidation of their gains and a bringing up of their communications.

There is, it seems to me, another new factor which may have had something to do with Moscow's move. That is the sweeping successes of the Chinese Communists against the Nationalists.

The Red offensive in China has created a new crisis which is causing the western Allies deep concern. Communism has established a new major front in Asia which might distract some of the attention of the western powers from the European theatre and so make easier the task to consolidating its position there.

In any event, whatever may be the exact motive behind the Russian move regarding the blockade, there is one immutable fact which we shouldn't overlook:

While the tactics of the Communist world revolution are bound to vary according to circumstances, and strong-arm methods may be abandoned in certain cases, the global drive will continue.

CHEAP DISTRIBUTION
It takes only a nickel's worth of electricity to move a barrel of crude oil 1400 miles through pipelines. By the end of 1951, the world's pipeline facilities for distribution of oil and natural gas will be increased by 29,000 miles.

LITTLE LOSS
The sun and other stars are able to give off tremendous amounts of radiation year after year, with little indication of burning out, because of chemical action comparable to the creation of atomic power.

★ WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Self-Control Is Essence of Temperance

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

THIS is a temperance lesson.

Temperance lessons were formerly built around the principle of total abstinence from alcoholic liquors. That principle has been basic in such organizations as the WCTU and various temperance societies, and in the main it has been the emphasis in temperance activities in most of the Protestant churches. But it requires very little observation to note that in respect to this there has been a great let-down among church people in recent years.

This, I am frank to say, as a life-long total abstainer, I deeply regret. I am convinced that total abstinence is a personally safe and healthful practice.

From the standpoint of health I have never forgotten what a prominent labor leader said to me years ago. He had joined the church of which I was then pastor, after never having been inside a church door in 12 years. He was an habitual, but very moderate, drinker, and I used to poke some fun at him about the habit. He surprised me one day by informing me that he had been on the water-wagon for three months. But he had also surprised himself. "My word," he said, "I feel better. I thought I couldn't be healthy without a couple of glasses of beer a day, but I have never felt so well." I think his experience would be that of many others who would follow his example.

For my own part, when I have been offered liquor, as has happened even on pastoral visits, I have been wont to say that I am as dry as the Sahara, but that I am neither Pharisee, nor apologist, about it. I am not Pharisee, for I know that far better men than I drink habitually. But I am not apologist, for I resent the social imputation that I should eat or drink what I neither want, nor like, and particularly something with which a great deal of personal and social unhappiness is associated. It is my feeling that it is the drinker, rather than the abstainer, who ought to be on the defensive.

But all this leads up to the plain truth that it is self-control that is the essence of temperance. And the highest form of self-control, which implies a self capable of controlling, is the control of the spirit of God in the inward life. With that well established one cannot far go astray, whatever his reactions to the problems of conduct.

A NEWSPAPER writer once described me as "a dry, but not a fanatical dry." I took it as a

How Big Is Your World?

There's an important week coming up for homemakers to mark their calendars. It's National Home Demonstration Week, May 1-7, when everyone will have opportunity of giving recognition to many able rural women whose leadership and devotion have made home economics extension work a big part of every day rural life.

Pennsylvania has chosen "How Big Is Your World?" as the theme for statewide observance of National Home Demonstration Week, according to Miss Lydia Tarrant, in charge of home economics extension work in the state, and Mrs. Geraldine Johnston, home economics representative in Warren county. "How Big Is Your World?" is a frank question which you may well ask yourself and your family. Home economics extension representatives are working constantly to help answer that query and make each homemaker's world bigger and better.

National Home Demonstration Week is the time especially set aside for each homemaker to evaluate her own world and to plan for making it even better for herself and her family. What are some of the things you can ask yourself as May 1st approaches? Are the meals which you serve your family nutritious and planned to please the eye? Is your home well managed and your work done in an orderly fashion? Are you trying to improve the appearance of your home so it will be a more pleasant place? Have you encouraged any of your friends to join you at a home economics extension meeting?

"It's your world and you can make it as big or as little as you choose," reminds your state and local representatives, Miss Tarrant adds this reminder in closing her interview: "The home economics extension worker in your county works to help you and all the homemakers in the county. Get to know her better."

FARM CALENDAR
Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture
Avoid Bull Hazard—One way of eliminating the hazard of having a dairy herd bull (they are never safe) on the farm, suggests Joe S. Taylor, extension dairy specialist, the Pennsylvania State College, is the use of artificial breeding, a program which now takes in one-fifth of all dairy cows and heifers of breeding age in the State. Incidentally, dairy artificial breeding is now available in all counties and in all communities, with a concentration of dairy animals.
Draining Wet Spots—Despite the large volume of this work done on Pennsylvania farms since the war, John R. Haswell, extension agricultural engineer, the Pennsylvania State College, says the installation for draining wet spots "appears to be just getting started, judging from the big program now under way in nearly all parts of the State."
More Eggs Per Hen—Pennsylvania poultrymen are doing a better job than ever before in maintaining their flocks, and consequently are producing more eggs per hen, states Harry H. Kauffman, in charge of poultry extension, the Pennsylvania State College.
Work Less and Do More By making maximum use of elevators, hosts, blowers, and other mechanical gadgets farmers ease their own labor load, and get more accomplished, says Charles G. Burless, Penn State extension agricultural engineer.
Sturdy Baby Chicks—Important factors for brooding sturdy chicks are clean, dry, draft-free quarters, reminds F. H. Leuschner, extension poultry specialist, the Pennsylvania State College.
New Look on Farm—Farmers who "clean up and paint up" are giving their premises a "new look," reports C. R. Eingham, extension agricultural engineer, the Pennsylvania State College.

Red Letter Event Of IOOF 60 Years Ago Is Recalled

Brief History of Local IOOF Lodge Shows Order Active In Early Affairs of the Borough

The following brief history of the Warren Lodge of Odd Fellows was compiled by the committee in charge of the anniversary celebration and read at a meeting held in February commemorating the occasion:

February 27th, this Lodge was One Hundred years old. It was instituted in the Hall on the third floor of the Carver House. Henry S. Patterson was Grand Master at that time. The initiation was conferred by O. D. Spofford of Erie, assisted by members of Ellicott Lodge of Jamestown, N. Y.

The Charter members were John H. W. Fletcher, A. J. Davis, J. H. King, Stephen Carver and Henry Morrison. Three of this number retained their membership until, two withdrew and one was suspended for non-payment of dues.

During the day and evening sessions, thirteen persons were proposed and elected to membership and were initiated and two joined by card, making a total of twenty-one members.

In March of the same year, an accident occurred at Shipman's Eddy, when it was necessary to amputate a man's leg. A Doctor by the name of A. D. Vorhees who was on a raft immigrating with his family to Virginia was called and did the operation at once. Soon after some of the nurses considered the Doctor preferred charges of malpractice. The Doctor was arrested in Ohio and brought back to Warren. Being an Oddfellow he appealed to the Lodge for protection. The members went to his aid and assisted him in securing a signature of four local Doctors who said it was necessary to operate in order to save the man's life, which aroused public opinion and charges were withdrawn.

During the year 1849 the Lodge increased its membership to seventy members and in 1850 added sixty more.

In August 1850, the first charge to be preferred against a Brother was made. The Brother was found guilty to a limited degree and was ordered to pay a fine of $2.00 and stand suspended until a resolution was complied with. He felt aggrieved at the decision of the Lodge and left himself stand suspended and never again affiliated with the Order. In the first twenty-five years of the Lodge the charges were preferred against eleven Brothers, six were expelled, one was restored to membership seven years later, four confessed and were reprimanded by the Noble Grand in open Lodge, and as stated, one let his suspension stand. At that time, three of these Brothers were very influential men of the town.

At this time I will read from a report of Rufus P. King, the first representative to the Grand Lodge at Philadelphia: "In company with W. O. Blodgett of Sugar Grove Lodge, we found many prominent members in attendance, among them Judge Bradford, Hon. H. Kneass, W. H. Lamberton and A. V. Parker, who later was elected Governor of the State.

In the year 1850, the growing business of the Carver House forced Brother John H. Hull, to ask the Lodge to find other quarters as soon as possible. The Warren and Davis building, being under construction at the time, the Lodge purchased the third floor and held their first meeting in the new hall January 1851. This place was sold to Watson and Davis in 1872 and the lodge moved in 1873 to building at the corner of Water Street and Second Avenue, where the Savings Bank now stands.

Later, the Lodge moved to the Exchange Building at the corner of Liberty and Second Avenue. On August 6, 1872 the Lodge purchased land on the corner of Liberty and Second Avenue and borrowed money from the members to pay the land and purchased the third floor of the Allen building, then in construction at the corner of Liberty and Second Avenue, where the Warren National Bank now stands. In the year 1903, the Lodge sold the Warren National Bank and moved to Hickory Street, where the New Process Company is now located. The present building was purchased in 1905 and moved in during July 1908.

In August 1851 Thumshida Lodge No. 442, I. O. O. F. was instituted in this place and did all of their work in the German Language and held their meetings in Warren Lodge Hall. We do not and any record of when this lodge was disbanded.

Christovera Lodge No. 373 was instituted at Columbus in the winter of 1850-1851. Southwest Lodge was instituted at Erie in 1851 and 1853 and Youngsville Lodge No. 500 in 1854. In each case, members withdrew from this Lodge to start these other Lodges and all are suspended, except Youngsville, which will, in another five years celebrate their 100th Anniversary.

Sugar Grove had the first Lodge in the County but we do not know what year or how long it was in existence.

From 1854 to 1860 there were no initiations made into the Lodge, during which time suspension for non-payment of dues reduced the membership to twenty-two. During the re-actations in these years, the suspensions of nearly half of the lodges in the State and throughout the country caused no little concern as to the fate of Oddfellowship. In April 1862 this Lodge only reached to thirty-five members. The few members that remained held on with hopes that the Brothers would return to the fold and their hopes were fully rewarded.

On December 15, 1859, the hall

This will be followed by a program at the Warren High school auditorium at 7:30 o'clock to which the public is invited, as well as all Rebekahs and Encampment members and their families. The program for the evening follows:

There will be introductions of Grand Lodge officers including George Blair, Erie, past grand patriarch of the Grand Encampment; James Eley, Waynesburg, deputy grand master; Roy Persons, Franklin, grand warden, and others.

The committee in charge is composed of the following: Clarence Agren, Howard D. Kinkead, Edmund Baird, Ray Farnsworth, Howard Van Orsdale, Harold Fulmer, William Rohrer and Horace Pangborn, noble grand of the lodge.

was used by the citizens for a ball in honor of the opening of the Sun-bury and Erie R. R. The largest crowd that was ever in the hall.

We find that the Courts of Warren County in 1858 issued a charter to a group of men to establish a cemetery to be known as, Warren County Cemetery. Nothing seemed to be done about this, so in 1862, the Lodge appointed a committee of five members to consider and report upon the propriety of purchasing a suitable ground and establishing a Citizens Cemetery. In 1863, the trustees were directed to purchase a piece of land from Thomas Struthers and several members signed a joint note and purchased same for $2100.00 and on October 12, 1863 Oakland Cemetery was dedicated. In 1865, the Lodge decided to erect the present monument in the Odd Fellows lot, which was done at a cost of $3500.00, the money being raised by popular subscription.

In 1867, the Noble Grand appointed a committee to look into and report to Lodge to the advisability of procuring a charter and building a bridge across the river. We cannot find any report of this committee. In 1868 the Lodge sold the Ferry that was used to cross the river. A motion was made that a committee be appointed to ascertain the advisability of having a Charter from the State of Pennsylvania, and hold same in the name of the Lodge for the construction of a Toll Bridge across the river. Out of this committee, a company known as the Pleasant Bridge Company was organized. A number of the Lodge members individually, as well as the Lodge and Oakland Cemetery held stock in the company and the old suspension bridge was completed in 1872. In later years, the bridge was acquired by the Commissioners of Warren County and open to the public without toll. It served many years and was then replaced by the present concrete bridge.

During the early years of the Lodge, the names of past members were not returned to their membership until their death, such as:

Rufus P. King, Andrew Hertz, Charles Chase, John McWilliams, S. W. Walters and A. J. Davis, who was the last Charter member and was active until declining years forced him to cease. He passed away June 20, 1910.

The number of members at this time is as follows:

Charter Member	6
Initia's	1104
By Card or Transfer	225
Total	1335

As your Committee read through the records and looked for information, they could not help but praise the work of our Brothers for the work they did for the Community as well as Fraternism and in general. You can see that the trials and tribulations of keeping an organization going for one hundred years are many.

It seems to us, that the Lodge for many years was the Town Council, School Board and all Service Clubs combined, so we are justified in saying that this Lodge has the respect and admiration of the whole Community.

The many Balls, Festivals, Anniversaries and Public gatherings in general brought many from Sheffield, Youngsville, Ludlow, Russell and as far away as Kane, when transportation was mostly walking, horse or buggy, to unite with Warren Lodge until such time as their own community could have a lodge of its own.

May we always be able to practice all the social and fraternal requirements of the order and above all, maintain and practice the virtue of Tolerance.

We have two Homes in our district, the Children's Home at Meadville, Pa., the first fraternal children's home in the world, and the Home for the Aged at Grove City, Pa.

In many organizations there is an Auxiliary Lodge. In our order, we have the Lady Enoch Lodge, Lady Warren Lodge No. 209 is very active and is an important asset to Oddfellowship. Meetings are held every Friday evening.

Grand Old Man Of I. O. O. F.

William Muir, who recently celebrated his 98th birthday anniversary at St. Petersburg, Fla., a member of Warren Lodge, is believed to be the oldest member of the IOOF in Pennsylvania, in point of membership. He has been a member of the order in good standing for over 77 years.

Deputy Grand Master

James H. Eley, of Waynesburg, one of the Grand Lodge officers who will be in Warren for the 100th anniversary program of the local Lodge of Odd Fellows Saturday evening.

An organization which is comprised of all Lodges in thirteen counties, known as the Northwestern District Association is a most active organization. Meetings are held twice a year by invitation from its many members.

There are several branches in our Order. Following the subordinate lodge is the Kossuth Encampment No. 88, which is a big asset to Warren Lodge. Degree work in this branch is also very impressive. Meetings are second and fourth Thursdays.

Another organization known as the Past Grand Council (of Warren and Forest counties) is composed of past officers who are very active and give a good deal of assistance to their home lodges. They meet once a month.

Names of Living Past Noble Grands

Following are the names of the living past noble grands of the Warren Lodge of Odd Fellows: C. S. Anderson, Nicholas Andersen, Clarence R. Agren, Milo A. Barber, Raymond B. MEMBERS OF IOOF 40 TO 50 YEARS

C. S. Anderson—42; Ben Berkman—47; Herman Beck—41; R. A. Davis—44; E. A. Gilson—42; Harry F. Guttler—44; John C. Hartman—46; H. A. Johnson—45; G. F. Laufenburger—48; Lewis J. Learn—40; Arthur G. Mahaffey—42; Otto S. Nelson—42; John Swanson—44; William Silze—47; G. Elmer Walters—49; Walter D. Ward—42.

There are four degrees in the Sub-Ordinate Lodge. These degrees are explained and ceremonies are serious and impressive. Meetings are held every Tuesday evening.

During World War I, there were 42 in service, two of whom were killed in action; in World War 2, there were 12 in service, all of whom returned.

Pinoche, pool and billiards are the most popular forms of entertainment and some spirited contests have been held.

For Sunday night supper a main dish of creamed chicken, beef, waffles, is a good choice. You can make enough of the sauce for four four-section waffles by using a quarter pound of chipped beef and two cups of medium white sauce.

Hundreds of Three Linkers In Attendance At Eightieth Anniversary Held In 1899

Sixty years ago last Tuesday Warren was the scene of one of the largest gatherings of members of the IOOF this section had witnessed before or since. It was the occasion of the 80th anniversary of the founding of the order. From the files of the Warren Evening Mirror of April, 1899, we reprint the following interesting account of the event:

The eightieth anniversary of Odd Fellowship is being fittingly celebrated in Warren today. Some 3000 representatives of lodges comprising the Northwestern-Central district of Pennsylvania and their sisters, the Daughters of Rebecca, participating. A better day could not have been hit upon, or perhaps, more correctly to put it, a better place for holding such a convention could not have been selected, for last night rain fell on all sides of the city, but all we got was the delightfully cool breeze in consequence of nature's consideration. The entire city hung out "at home" cards. Not only were the business houses decorated but the houses generally of our hospitable citizens waved a fraternal welcome with the stars and stripes of freedom and good fellowship.

Lodges from nearby towns arrived on the early trains, nearly every train bringing a band which in turn met and welcomed incoming lodges up until noon, when the delegations from Bradford, Kean, Ridgway, DuBois and intermediate towns arrived by special train and completed the attendance.

By noon the streets were crowded with citizens to view the parade, and the patriotic air assumed in the decorations, gave the town the appearance of celebrating Dewey day, or an event of no less local pride. The hotels began serving dinner at 11 o'clock and were crowded to their capacity. The Rebekahs were dined by the local lodge in G. A. R. hall.

The parade marched promptly at 2:00, Capt. D. F. A. Wheelock, chief marshal, Dr. W. S. Farnce and John Stein, aides and the divisions commanded in the order named: Dr. W. S. Peirce, Warren, W. F. Sechrist, Johnsonburg, Hon. H. H. North, Bradford, D. M. McCall, Tidouite, C. W. Baird. The line formed on Water street, extending from Central park up Liberty street and moved in the order given, was on Water street to Revere House, countermarching east on Water to East park, then countermarching west on Water street to Liberty street, north on Liberty street to Library theatre.

The first division, headed by Coleman's band, of Tidouite, Marshall W. S. Walderwood of Kane, in command, was a division of officers, carrying the mayor and speakers, the common council, officers of the N. C. D. A., the Daughters of Rebecca and aged Odd Fellows.

The second division, Marshall W. F. Sechrist of Johnsonburg, was headed by the Ridgway band and made up as follows: Ridgway canton, Ridgway lodge, I. O. O. F., Clarendon lodge, DuBois lodge, Wilcox lodge. Large delegations represented each lodge. The Bradford band separated this from the third division commanded by Marshall H. H. North of Bradford. In this division were the lodges of Bradford, Kinzua, Sheffield and Lottsville, a splendid body of McKeen and Warren county citizens, gallantly bedecked in the insignia of the order. The fourth division, Marshall D. M. McCall, of Tidouite, headed by Tidouite's well drilled band of young musicians and led by the strong lodge in this division were those of Kane, Youngsville, Grand Valley and Tionesta. Johnsonburg's big drum corps, uniformed like the youngsters in one of Eugene Field's poems, and stepping off like soldiers, marched at the head of the fifth and last division, Marshall W. Baird of Johnsonburg, in command, gaily bedecked in the regalia of the patriarch militant was first in line, followed by the lodges of Johnsonburg, Waterford, Ludlow, Frewsburg and Warren, each displaying some handsomely designed silk banners emblematic of the order, their ranks filled to the top with a grand parade of good citizens upon whom their hosts, the residents of this city, looked with great pride and with generous welcome in their hearts. Immediately following the parade a public meeting was held at Library theatre, where a program of songs and interspersed with music, interesting to all sympathizers with fraternal societies as well as citizens generally, was carried out. The visiting speakers were Hon. H. H. North, of Bradford; Hon. Isador Sobel of Erie and Hon. S. S. Fowler of Marienville, ex-speaker of the state house of representatives. Following this meeting the delegates elected by the various lodges will meet in convention at Odd Fellows hall at 7 o'clock, the degrees will be conferred upon several candidates by the team of Tuna Valley lodge of Bradford at Library theatre. At the same time in Odd Fellows hall a team from Matilda lodge 79 Daughters of Rebecca of Sheffield, will exemplify the Rebecca degree. A grand ball will begin at the armory at 9 o'clock, Coleman's orchestra playing.

The oldest lodge of Odd Fellows in western Pennsylvania is Warren lodge, 339. Its oldest member is A. J. Davis.

Warren lodge of Odd Fellows was chartered Dec. 18, 1843, and installed Feb. 27, 1849. Its first officers were John A. Hall, N. G.; J. W. Fletcher, V. G.; A. J. Davis, secretary; John T. King, assistant secretary; Stephen Carver, treasurer. Henry Morrison was the other charter member.

The Odd Fellows lodge was the first fraternal order to be instituted in Warren. The Masons followed in the same year. A. J. Davis is the only surviving charter member of the local lodge. Major D. W. C. James was made a member at this meeting in the lodge. Ex-Governor H. B. Waite, of Colorado, was one of the early members.

Hon. William T. Davies of To-wanda, lieutenant governor under General Beaver is in attendance at the convention, the guest of Artist W. Greaves. Governor Davies is sitting for a portrait by Artist Groves to be hung in the legislative halls at Harrisburg, the third of Pennsylvania's six lieutenant governors whose portraits bear the card of this skilled artist.

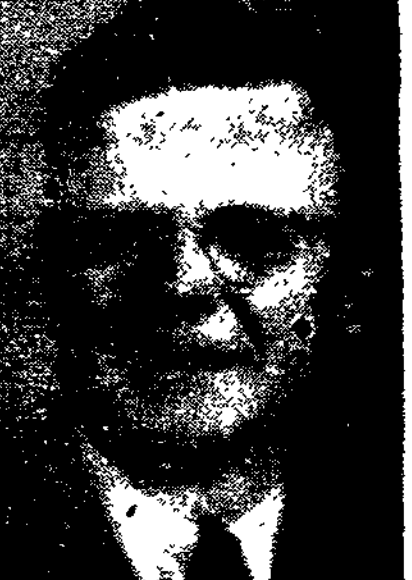

Hon. S. S. Fowler of Marienville, ex-speaker of the Pennsylvania house of representatives, is said to have been one of the ablest men of the sessions in which he figured. Legislative history records his first term as one of the most notable successes of the state house.

If any gentleman could step forward and claim the honor of having made this day so glorious, we might put Dewey, Mark Hanna, Hobson and the entire crowd in the shade in the matter of applause.

There were 996 persons in line according to the count kept by an observing spectator. The Johnsonburg Drum Corps of twenty pieces, all boys ranging from ten to fifteen years of age, was a feature of the parade and was especially popular with the children.

The afternoon session of the public schools did not begin until 2:30 in order that the pupils might witness the parade.

Grand Warden

Roy M. Persons, of Franklin, well known in Three Link circles in the state, will be one of the honor guests at the 100th anniversary observance here Saturday.

Chapter 10

HE drove into the camp, parked his car and helped Felicity out. He turned to Tippy, who was scrambling out, a wary eye upon Garrett's stern face.

"Tippy," he said in an astonished, gentle voice, "what would have sped past him. 'I'd like a word with you, my girl.'"

Felicity whirled and her startled eyes met his.

Felicity looked down at the small set face; if there had been one faint, tiny hint for sympathy, one plea for rescue in Tippy's face, one word, one look in her wide dark eyes, Felicity would have broken and fought Garrett for her. But the very hardness in that small face, the set of that rosy-brown mouth that was just a thin, pink line, warned Felicity that for Tippy's own good Tippy had to be punished.

Felicity drew a long, hard breath, straightened her shoulders, touched Tippy's shining curls with a fleeting caress and fled.

Tippy watched her go, and then Tippy lifted her face to the teeth, and said, clenched teeth, "You can spank the livin' daylight out of me, but I won't cry. You can make me cry."

She met his eyes steadily, without a hint of breaking. Her mouth was a stubborn line; her eyes were steady, daring him, challenging his authority. Yet admitting herself too small and weak to avoid his physical violence. And suddenly Garrett was conscious of being very much ashamed.

Meeting her stormy gaze, he knew the exact moment when Tippy realized that he was no longer blindly furious, and suddenly he was a little ashamed of his desire for physical violence.

That derisive gleam in her eye, that faint tugging of a smile at the corners of her mouth, stifled his determination and quickened again his anger. He turned, swung open the door of his trailer, and said sternly, "In-side, youngster—and make it snappy."

Garret stared down at her and then he thrust one hand in his pocket, the other through his curled hair, and heaved a deep sigh. He turned, dropped down on the couch, and said sternly, "Of course you know, Tippy, that you deserve a sound licking—don't you?"

"Then why don't you get started?" demanded Tippy boldly.

Garrett's face darkened and his hands reached out and jerked her to his knee. But the smallness and frailness of her body between his strong hands struck at her like a physical blow. "Hang it all, Tippy—I can't lick you," he admitted his defeat ignominiously.

TIPPY leaned confidently against him, her eyes curled and bowed and she was bringing the baby back, but—well, they were so mean about not letting us play on their old beach."

Garrett stared at her in dawning horror.

"Then you stole the baby deliberately?" he demanded.

Tippy nodded, an impish smile tugging at the corners of her mouth. "To get even with that fat old man who called us ragamuffins and made us leave their beach," she acknowledged frankly.

"But, Tippy—that's terrible!" Garrett was all but speechless. She nodded solemnly. "I know it was, and I'm sorry—now, I do have to be punished, don't I?"

"You must," said Garrett grimly. "But I—well, I can't do it."

Tippy hesitated and then her better nature for a moment overrode the impishness of her and she offered gently, "Well, I'd like to like the children if my hair wasn't curly and if I had to wear shorts all the time and couldn't ever dress up and have people say, 'Why, what an exquisite child!'"

He sat staring at her for a moment, dumfounded, before he shook his head and admitted, "You defeat me utterly, Tippy. Okay then—be short and your hair in a pigtail."

"How long, Garry?"

Chapter 11

AFTER a few days they had settled down into the routine that would hold them through the winter months.

Two days before the first Thanksgiving, Jason came back from a trip to the grocery store, two blocks away, wild with excitement.

"I've got a job, Fliss, at the grocery! Working Friday afternoons and Saturdays, and I'm going to work tomorrow, because the store will be closed, of course, on Thursday."

Felicity caught her breath on something near a sob. He was only fifteen, but tall, rangy, heartbreakingly small-boyish in some ways, even more heartbreakingly a man in others.

"Oh, darling, it's such hard work—and long hours," she protested.

"The hours are not half as long as the ones you have been putting in for years taking care of the kids and me," he reminded her almost grimly.

THANKSGIVING—the first one was a day of wild excitement. Jason was a glorious boy, warm as mid-summer, and Felicity had packed a picnic basket for him. Felicity could do it. They all set off very early in Garrett's car, because it was larger, for a day at the beach.

With the lunch basket placed safely out of reach, of the tide and covered securely from the fiddler crabs, they all played in the water. Garrett and Jason could swim; the others couldn't. And because none of them knew anything about the currents at this spot, they had heard some pretty terrifying tales of "rip-tides" and shelving beaches where, beneath the deceptively peaceful waters, one stepped off into holes above one's head, the others were content just to paddle at the edge of the beach.

When, sunburned and glowing with happiness and hunger, they came back to the beach, they saw something that looked like a small shadow scurry out of sight behind a dune.

"It looked to me like a dog," said Jason, and went to investigate.

They were yelling for him to come to lunch when he finally came back with surely the most miserable looking small specimen of a dog that one could conceive.

He cowered in Jason's arms, shrank from the blow that he so obviously expected, and whimpered as though with pain when the scent of food struck his small nostrils, far too long unused to such scents.

"The poor mite!" said Felicity, as she poured milk into a paper cup and held it for the cringing little dog. "What do you suppose he's doing way out here? It's miles to the nearest house."

"Someone who didn't want him and who was too kind-hearted to kill a dog" brought him out here and abandoned him," said Garrett dryly.

The puppy had finished the milk and was watching her hopefully, his long pencil-like tail almost daring to wag a little. The children were entranced with him. They fed him bits of their lunch, until his small stomach was pleasantly full. They played with him and, a little daunted at all this kindness and attention in a world where he had up to now found only misery and hunger, he was beside himself with delight. When the day was over and they were ready to leave, he stood watching them with all his eager, hopeful puppy-soul in his eyes. Felicity stooped, caught him up in her arms, and said shakily, "Stop it, Pup—you're breaking my heart. Of course you can go home with us—if you want it that much."

Garrett grinned at her as he sat beside her at the wheel and bent to switch on the ignition. "Wonder what Ma Green will say?" he suggested, amused.

But when they drove into the camp and Ma Green saw the dog, she nodded, smiled and said, "There now—your place looks complete. I always think a bunch of kids ain't complete unless there's a pup around somewhere."

Then—you don't mind if we keep them? Felicity said eagerly.

Ma Green looked surprised. "Mind? Good land, why should I mind? It's like I say, kids need something small and alive to take care of. It sort of teaches them things to have a little living thing dependent on them."

"Ma Green, you're a darling!" Ma Green's faded blue eyes twinkled a little and she nodded. "Oh, I darsay—I darsay!" she drawled, and went back to the unpainted, weather-stained little house that was her home.

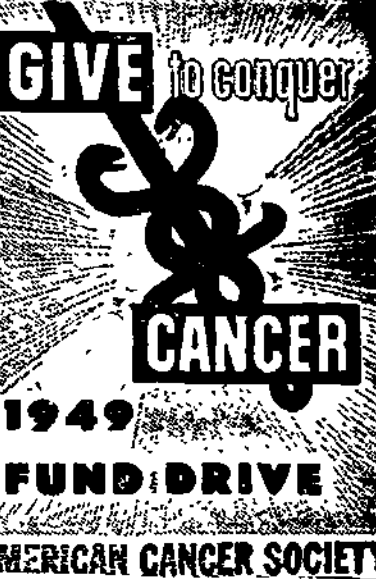

Garrett and Jason, the first fifteen pages of his book and now was going smoothly and his enthusiasm for it was mounting. He still talked it over with Felicity every night, but he still argued violently with her suggestions. She finally stopped offering them. She told herself, lying awake long after she had said good-night to him, that the trouble was with her; she just didn't understand the kind of people people are. She was a failure, so she couldn't possibly judge. If the book sounded very dull and unconvincing to her, that was only her own ignorance and lack of understanding.

She borrowed Garrett's typewriter and occasionally wrote like mad typing her play. Not she assured herself over and over again, that she had the faintest hope of ever selling the play or of seeing it produced; she knew it wasn't any good; but writing it, working on it, planning it as she went about her busy days gave a sort of emphasis to things. It helped the everyday tasks, if while she was performing them, she could be polishing in her mind, some bit of dialogue, perfecting some trick of stage "business." But she would have been mortified to tears if anyone had known what she was trying to do.

New Shanghai Constabulary See Action

Squad members of Shanghai's crack police constabulary search a rickshaw boy and his passenger suspected of carrying unlicensed weapons. Organized about a year ago, the "flying fortress" policemen are prepared to deal with any emergency and may be called upon to fight if Shanghai is defended against Communist capture or prevent the wild looting experienced by Nanking.

Hospitalman Third Class Gerald Smith, of Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital, wears the Navy's newly-adopted film badge which measures the wearer's exposure to atomic radiation and other forms of radioactivity. Badge will be worn by all Navy personnel who work with X-rays, radio isotopes and industrial radiography. Film is replaced and developed periodically.

Dr. Modesto C. Rolland, 67, director of Mexico's Free Ports, explains in Los Angeles the Mexican government's plan for a $300,000,000 "railway for ships" from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific. The doctor came to this country to seek American capital to finance the proposed project.

Crack New Shanghai Police Ready for Action

Three members of Shanghai's crack police constabulary hold up their tommy guns for inspection. Outfitted with the best equipment and arms, the policemen were organized about a year ago and are prepared to deal with any emergency. With Communist armies advancing on the city, they may be pressed into action for defense or prevent the widespread looting and anarchy that befell Nanking.

Mexico Plans 'Railway for Ships'

Here is an artist's conception of the Mexican government's "dream" of a 162-mile "railway for ships" between the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific Ocean. Ships floating in giant floating dry docks rolling on 1200 railway wheels from Puerto Mexico to Salina Cruz would save 1500 miles over the Panama Canal route. Project will cost an estimated $300,000,000, while a regular canal across the isthmus would cost $5,000,000,000.

Zoo Officials Horn In

It takes a pair of pruning shears to give Kifaru's horn a trim at the Philadelphia Zoo. Assistant keeper Pat Manichini gets ready to do the clipping, while head keeper John Reagan, right, and curator Fred Ulmer jockey the black rhinoceros into position for the operation. Dehorning was a precautionary measure, because tough Kifaru will soon rejoin his mate Kenya.

Railroaded

Bill Marrs, Jr., 13, of Owine-mucca, Nev., pets his dog Queenie after saving her and himself from death. Trapped on a trestle by an oncoming fast freight, Bill grabbed the dog and lay prone between the tracks as 11 cars of the 80-car train passed over them and groaned to a stop. Scrambling out from under, Bill fell 15 feet into a river bed, breaking his right arm. His head was grazed by the engine pilot.

To a Fan

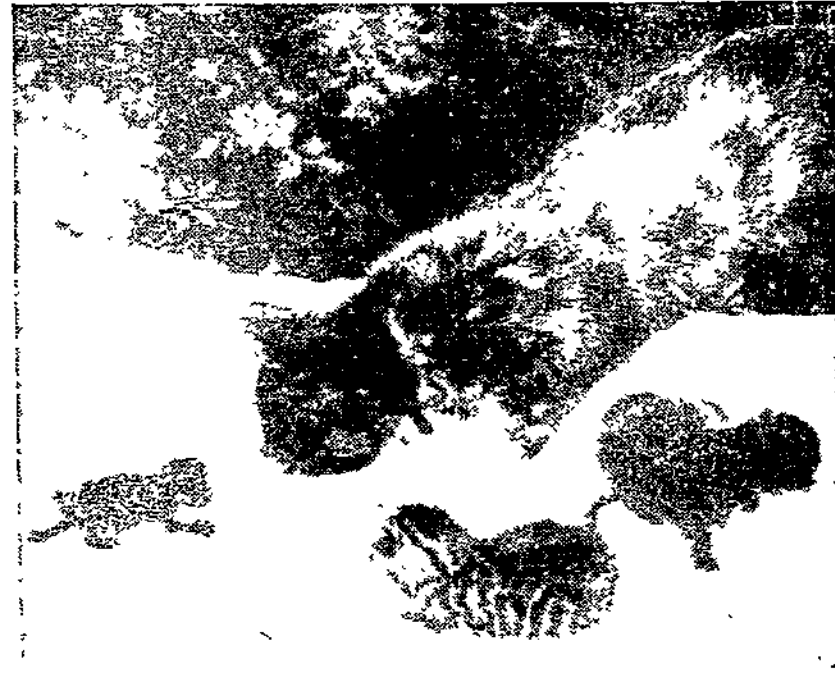

Pee Wee Reese, captain and shortstop of the Dodgers, unveils a bronze plaque on a seat at Ebbets Field in memory of Jack Laurice, one of the more ardent Brooklyn fans who led the Bums' Symphony Band for 10 years before his death last November. Watching is Mrs. Laurice and her son. Vacant the first day, the seat will be held for a member of a boys' organization with which Shorty Laurice was affiliated.

Putting the Heat on Feller

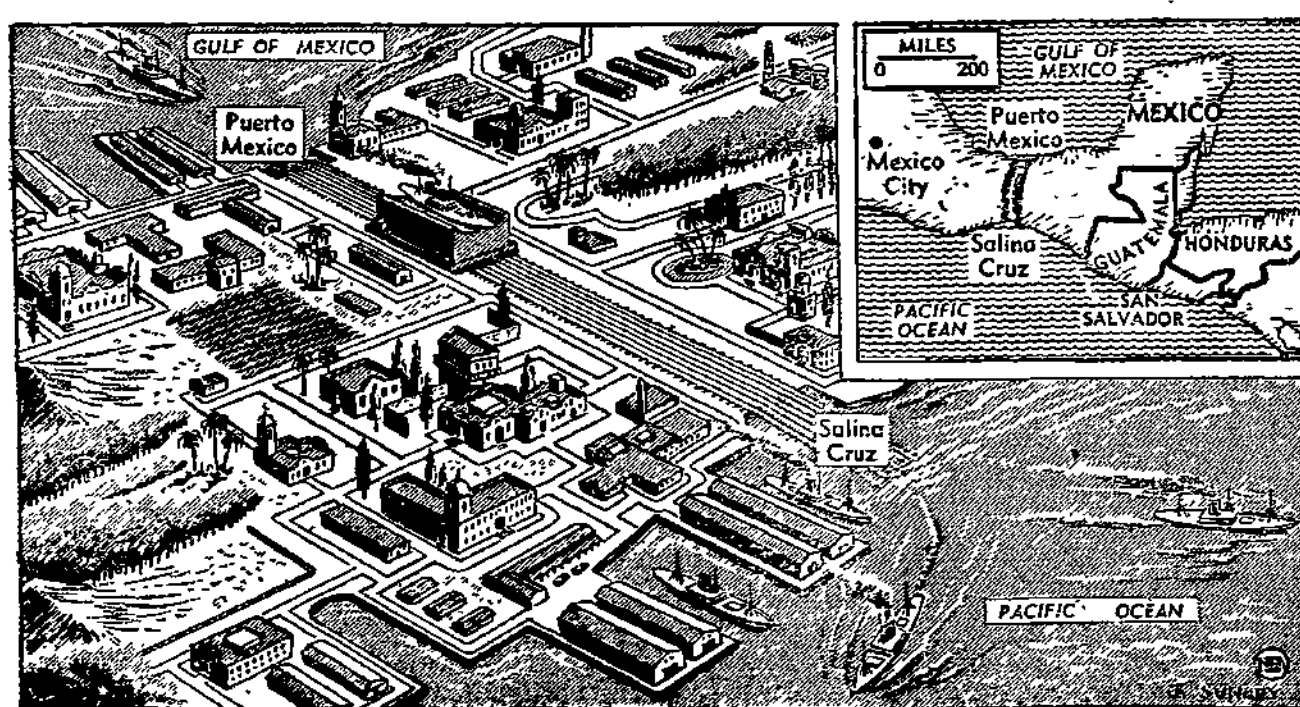

Trainer Lefty Weisman gives a heat treatment to the ailing shoulder of Cleveland's fireball ace Bob Feller. Feller was forced out of the Indians' line-up for several days after pulling a muscle in the shoulder during the opening game of the season at St. Louis.

Look What the Cat Dragged In

Smokey, pet cat of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lafferty, of Willoughby, O., looks over her brood—two of her own kittens and an infant critter she dragged into the house after one of her nightly prowls. The Laffertys can't tell whether it's a baby raccoon, muskrat, dog, or what. But nonetheless, Smokey mothers, feeds and fusses over it like one of her own.

Mexico Proposes Inter-Ocean 'Ship Railway'

This sketch shows how the Mexican government's plan to build a giant "railway for ships" from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific would work. At the terminal points of Puerto Mexico and Salina Cruz, ships would be floated into huge floating dry docks and run 162 miles across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec on as many as 24 rails. Ship in "cradle" on rails is seen in middle of sketch. Electric motors would push dry docks along at 18 miles an hour. The proposed $300,000,000 "railway" would save 1500 miles over Panama Canal route. Map inset shows Isthmus of Tehuantepec route.

Met Show Goes On Despite Tragedy

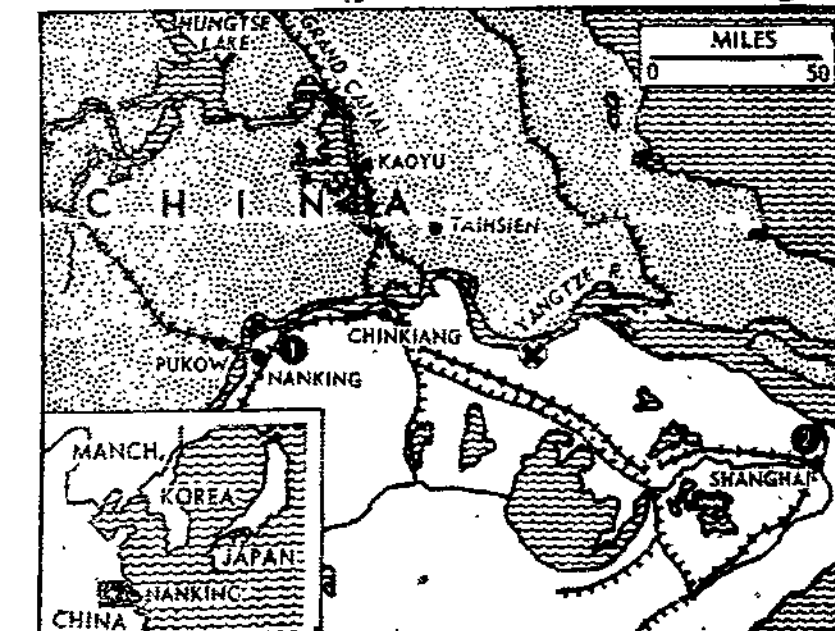

Despite the tragic death of their friend and co-worker, John Garris, Metropolitan Opera star, these Met ballerinas prepared to go for their three-minute stint in an opera performance at Memphis, Tenn. They are Tilda Morse, left, and Lorraine Ammerman. Garris was found shot to death in an Atlanta, Ga., alley a few hours after the Met troupe entrained from there.

Paint Vet's House—In Two and a Half Minutes

The snap-snap of brushes sounded like machine-gun fire when these 30 workers painted a crippled war veteran's five-room house in a record-breaking two minutes and 32 seconds. The $20,000 home belongs to Bob Hoelzle, 23, crippled by Jap gunfire on Okinawa when he was 19. It was given the former Marine by fellow citizens of New Brunswick, N. J., in recognition of his war record. Hoelzle, seated at left in wheelchair, beside his fiancée, Frances Elaine Noll, watches the sweeping second hand of the big clock set up to time the painters. All volunteers, they were members of Local 834 (AFL) Painters and Decorators Union. House won't be completely finished until just before Hoelzle's marriage to Miss Noll, June 12.

British Warships Shelled on Yangtze

Artillery on the Communist-held north bank of the Yangtze River shelled two British warships near Rose Island (cross-mark), about 80 miles east of Nanking (1). The 1430-ton sloop Amethyst ran aground on Rose Island with an estimated 20 casualties aboard. The 1710-ton destroyer Consort suffered 15 casualties in a running battle with the shore batteries. The British frigate Black Swan steamed from Shanghai (2) with doctors and medical supplies, and the 10,000-ton cruiser London raced to the scene. Red forces hold the north bank of the Yangtze (dot-shaded area) while Nationalist troops hold the south bank.

Enjoy Wild Flowers, Do Not Destroy

With the arrival of spring, Pennsylvanians are reminded by the State Planning Board of the Department of Commerce to enjoy but not destroy the wide variety of flowers and shrubbery which bloom each year about this time.

"To be assured the enjoyment of these flowers and trees in years to come, many of them cannot be plucked without threatening their extinction, since some species are becoming very rare," the Board warned.

"In gathering any flowers, one should not pull and tear the blossoms from the plants or bushes, leaving scars or mutilating the plant. Avoid loosening the plant from its roots or pulling out the plant entirely. And, always be sure that the flowers picked are hardy enough to live until they can be placed in water, otherwise the earth will be deprived of their charm without purpose.

Among the first wild flowers to appear are the hepatica, blood-root, spring beauty, anemone, arbutus, Dutchman's-breeches, saxifrage and trillium. Coming into bloom a little later are the columbine, lupine, the pink and yellow meadows or lady's slippers, adder's tongue and the violet.

Adding to the beauty of these delicate flowers are the sturdier flowering bushes and trees, such as the shad-bush, wild-cherry, redbud, dogwood, azalea, rhododendron and the laurel, the State flower.

When she heard a shot she came down and found her husband on the floor, a rifle by his side. Despondency over ill health the past three months is thought to have prompted the act. MUTUAL THE WORLD'S LARGEST NETWORK

May is almost here. The month of April has been a busy one in radio circles and May is going to start out even busier.

The biggest thing around WNAE at the moment is the "Wings Over Jordan" show for Sunday at 12:00 noon. There have been several articles in The Times Mirror this last week about the show and the air program. However, if you're not in a radio station, you can't realize just the effect of a network origination coming from a local station like WNAE. Day to Day, the staff handles all kinds of programs and produces out on the second with no particular concern about the job. But, let any kind of a program come to town for the full net origination, and everybody concerned with the production of the program begins to start biting nails. "Wings Over Jordan" has been on the air for over 10 years. They'll be completely at ease. The staff at WNAE will be too. . . . they hope!

Because of the great interest shown in the "Let's Look at Warren" forum last Sunday, the same topic for discussion will be continued this coming Sunday. A number of very thoughtful comments have been received at the studios concerning the questions brought up last Sunday.

"Showtime at the Legion" is scheduled for Friday night about 11:30. There is a baseball game scheduled at 9:30, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, and if the game and anywhere near the time it should, Joanne Johnson will be featured from the Legion. Joanne is the gal that made such a hit with the Legion audiences when she was here a couple of months ago.

Speaking of baseball, here are the games scheduled for the next week:
Friday, April 29—Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, 9:30.

Saturday, April 30—Pittsburgh vs. Cincinnati, 3:30.
Sunday, May 1—Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, 2:30.
Tuesday, May 3—Cincinnati at Brooklyn, 2:30. Pittsburgh at New York, 8:30.
Wednesday, May 4—Pittsburgh at New York, 2:30.
Thursday, May 5—Pittsburgh at New York, 2:30.
Week-day games are heard on WNAE and night and Sunday games on WNAE-FM.

Gabriel Heater's mailbag has brought comments both good and bad with a great majority definitely good. You may disagree with what Mr. Heater says, but you'll find his program very interesting to listen to. The mailbag is on the air every Monday through Friday at 12:45.

A final reminder that the "Wings Over Jordan" program will be heard over WNAE at 12:00 noon Sunday as it is fed to the entire Mutual network. This is the first time a Mutual network has ever been originated in the Warren studios.

OUT OUR WAY By J. R. WILLIAMS

THE DOUBLE LIFE

BORN FORTY YEARS TOO SOON

The Conewango Valley

By John P. Sage, Tidouct

CHAPTER FOUR

After having covered about five miles of my journey I can see the dairy land of fine farms and numerous herds of high bred grazing cows, which I earlier referred to, have continued down through the valley. While the blooming time of the dogwood and trilliums is over yet many of the wildwood species are present in their varied colors, during this flaming foliage time throughout the valley.

A flock of ducks that was browsing amongst the willows in a secluded cove took wing upon sighting my distant approach. I have encountered several half mile stretches of slow moving sluggish water where my six foot oar fails to reach bottom in the middle of the stream. Short hitches of two and three foot depth water separates these like-like bodies of water that require constant rowing to get over. Seeing a good sized muskellunge break water just ahead of my boat reminded me of the splendid fishing territory I was gazing upon. I have observed numerous birds of various type and color along my route, judging from their chattering and chirping they are a happy lot. Perhaps this rustic wildwood, the inviting stream of water and friendly farm land have combined to make this a Bird's Paradise. Landing my boat I climbed the bank and spying a farmer cultivating his corn, I wandered in that direction through field where the meadow larks were busily engaged in their search of food, and on my approach he inquired if I were looking for a job? I thanked him and replied, "I have one!" Then during the course of our conversation, while his team rested he remarked about the success his fourteen year old son had in trapping along the creek last season.

In answer to my inquiry he said, "The boy had a trap line of twenty-one traps and bagged seventy-four muskrats, three mink, and two coon, and added, "If he had been experienced he would have done better, the average muskrat pelt brought $2.25." I remarked that he is to be highly commended and told him that his son had thereby earned the privilege of joining the Fur Trapper's League.

Marring the creek and its fine body of water is much dead wood in the form of tree trunks and large limbs much of which, having become water logged, lies clinging to the bed of the deeper water with an occasional scrub of a limb protruding above the surface. The yearly flood waters that for centuries have been eating away at the creek banks, have undermined numerous trees that toppled into the water, then the swiftly moving water carried them along to the protecting shelter of the deeper water where they, that have not disintegrated and moved on, lay undisturbed retarding the flow of water to some extent and providing an obstacle for the fishermen to contend with. Judging from the numerous boats tied up here and there along the shore and the interesting sights attired in loud bathing suits that occasionally attracted my gaze, I concluded the creek must be a popular place for recreation and fishing. I was unable to understand the lack of cottages and camps until I learned the high crest of the flood-waters usually overflowed the bank. The rolling countryside and level stretches that meet up with the overgrown hill, through which the creek treks its winding course, extends its friendly fragrant atmosphere while the banks overhang with shrubbery and wild flowers and even wild grapes clinging in clusters to vines that hang from tree limbs and often trail on the surface of the water. Summers luxurious foliage calls us to the woodland paths, to the grandeur of the hills, and to the beautiful valleys spreading below. May our hearts never become calloused to the influence of the beauties of nature.

Sighting a log hut or Indian abode that was perched on a high knoll on the creek-bank I beached my boat to inspect it. After examining the dilapidated one room "Home Sweet Home" and finding no Indian arrow heads nor scalp, I concluded the place was too young to be the Indian Brave's abode that one time roamed the valley.

While passing through several fairly well timbered sections I noticed a number of large placards attached to tree facing the creek, forbidding one to hunt, trap, fish, or trespass on the posted land. However, the total lands posted would not exceed five percent of the territory I was passing through.

(To Be Continued)

Also awaiting a vote in the final hours was a new criminal code which would double the fines for gambling and increase the penalties for other crimes in Pennsylvania.

Warren Trackers Trim Corry For 3rd Triumph

Warren High school's Varsity track team made it three wins in three starts by overpowering Corry High, 86 to 23, before a large crowd at Beatty field yesterday afternoon.

A strong wind slowed down the running events several seconds, but the Dragon crew went all out to turn in some new records for the season in the field events.

Double winners for Coach Harry Hutchings crew included Gail Grinnell, 220 yard dash and shotput; Dean Blair, 440 yard run and road jump; and Bob Simpson, pole vault and high jump. Other Warren winners were Bill Schellhammer, 100 yard dash; Bill Cameron, 880 yard run; John Watt, mile run; Harold Greer, discus; and the mile relay team, Blair, Dave Winans, Watt and Fisher.

Templetons Annex Second Half Title in Commercial Loop

Templeton Morticians won the second half championship of the commercial tenpin league by whitewashing Muchas Restaurant 4-0 last night. Only one match point had separated the teams before last night's concluding match.

However, Muchas will get another crack at Templeton's when the teams square off next Thursday night at 7 o'clock in a rollover between the first and second half winners for the season championship.

High individual scoring in last night's league firing included Red Carr with 234-177-188-589 for Times Square; Henry Wyman with 240-200-182-556 for Templetons; Frank Willard with 187-176-243-56 for Peselec; and Pete Juliano with 195-153-207-583 for Rudolphs Barbers.

Ernie Wilson, anchor for G. G. Greeses, rattled the maples for a 68 aggregate on linescores of 201, 60 and 187 to lead the G. G. Greeses to a 3-1 triumph over Warren Plastics in Shop Tenpin league firing last night on Arcade Alley. Thomas Coupling blanked the National Forge in a second scrap.

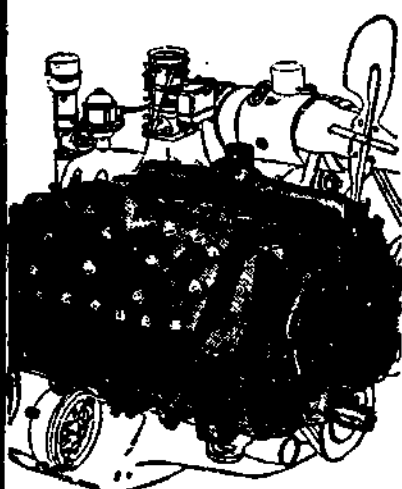

Mixed doubles teams are being signed up at both the Arcade and Penn bowling centers, and end-of-the-season leagues are expected to get under way shortly.

THE SCOREBOARD

Phillies Put Game to Music; Vaudeville Threatens Baseball

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Phillies are putting baseball to music this spring. Boddy Williams' Band is rehearsing as the Philharmonic.

The musical boys are using their own parodies on Take Me Out to the Ball Game. They have a composition apropos to the Dodgers. A take-off on the St. Louis Blues will be ready when—and if—the Phillies happen to knock The Cat Brecheen or some other Cardinal pitcher out of there. And so forth and so on.

Attending one of these rehearsals, you get the frightful idea that show business is going to kill baseball. The game is on its way to being killed; ADDED EXTRA ATTRACTION: BASEBALL GAME FEATURING, etc., etc. The old gag—movies killed vaudeville—easily could be revised to vaudeville's going to kill baseball. And television may belt both out of the box, for neither has a daily double.

Joe Engel started it all with his elephant hunts and whatnot in Chattanooga, and then came Larry MacPhail and Bill Veck. Now practically all clubs go in for give-aways—from bicycles for Junior to automobiles for Pop, refrigerators for Mom, radio sets and whatnot.

So far, though, no trips out of town. Even a baseball man knows that would be bad business.

SO bemused by the Philadelphia National's fantastic orchestra business was an old-line baseball writer that he withdrew during the rehearsal, and scribbled:

TAKE ME OUT TO THE BALL PARK

Take me out to the ball park,
Take me out to the show,
Buy me some peanuts and crackerjack,
Let me see the vaudeville act.
And don't let a ball game take place.
It's a shame, we'll lose face,
For it's one, two, three shows a day
At the old ball park.

As Bill Meyer stresses, the second bounce a ball takes is shorter than the first.

Taking the Pirates from dead last to fourth place in his freshman year, Manager Meyer had Frank Gustine batting close to .400 throughout the first half.

Elmer Riddle's arm, stone cold dead for a couple of years, suddenly came to life, and the laconic Gold was one of the National League's leaders at the half.

Listed as a coach at the outset, the veteran Rip Sewell was restored to active duty just in time to smack the Cubs, and his string of eight was the longest winning skein weaved in the elder wheel.

The equally ancient and honorable Fritz Ostermueller was equally phenomenal until it got real hot.

Pittsburgh has the oldest pitching staff in the league. Sewell is 41, Bonham and Casey are 35, Higbe is 34, Muncrief 33, Riddle 22 and Dickson 31. And then there is a young squirt in the outfield named Dixie Walker.

The Buccaneers may not improve their surprising position of last fall, but, as Bill Meyer says, they're old enough to know better.

Fan Accuses Durocher Of Punching Him

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Leo Durocher was in hot water again today, but nobody knew just how hot.

The quick-tempered manager of the New York Giants was accused by a Brooklyn fan of punching and kicking him yesterday at the Polo Grounds. Durocher, however, denied he hit anybody.

From a hospital cot, the fan—22-year-old Fred Boysen—said he would bring charges of assault against Durocher.

Boysen, a vociferous Brooklyn rooster, said he was attacked on the playing field after Durocher's Giants had been whipped, 15-2, by the Dodgers.

Durocher gave this version of the incident:

"As I was crossing the field to the dressing room I recall somebody snatching at my cap. I grabbed it back and kept walking. This sort of thing happens every day. I was surrounded by members of the Giants team and there were hundreds of spectators on the field. Do you think I could knock somebody down in front of them?"

Boysen—a war veteran—said he had been razzing the Giants' manager from a box behind the New York dugout. He gave this version:

"After the game my cousin and I went on the field. We were passing first base on our way over to talk to Jackie Robinson. Durocher came up behind me. He grabbed me and punched me. As I tried to get up, I was dizzy—he kicked me in the stomach."

Last night Baseball Commissioner Chandler said he had received no official report of the most recent fracas and that he had no comment.

Ted Williams Has a Big Day As Red Sox Thump Athletics

BY JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
American League pitchers, beware! Ted Williams has found the home run range.

While Rookies Johnny Groth and Jack Graham and teammate Vern Stephens battered the fences, Teddy had to be content with singles and doubles. Now he's back in the groove.

Williams had a big day yesterday with his first homer, a single and three walks for a perfect day against Philadelphia. He drove in five runs during the afternoon's festivities at friendly Fenway Park.

Led by Williams, the Sox thumped the A's, 12-5, for a clean sweep of the two-game set. Now they move on to New York for an important series with the Yankees. It was the fourth straight loss for the A's.

The Yanks warmed up for the Boston series by downing Washington, 6-2, behind Ed Lopat. The chunky lefthander, supposedly a slow starter in the spring and a great hot weather pitcher, now has won three straight.

Groth and Graham each hit their fourth home runs as the St. Louis Browns whipped Detroit, 9-2.

Groth got his with the bases loaded, his second grand slam, to send the Tigers out front in the third inning. Although the 22-year-old Johnny drove in five runs and stretched his season-long consecutive game hitting streak to nine games, it wasn't enough.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

SOMETIMES A DOUBLE IS TOO INFORMATIVE

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

(Written for NEA Service)

It sometimes happens that in trying to give information to your partner, you also give your opponent the information he needs to make his contract.

In today's hand, for example, South opened the bidding with one spade and West doubled. When North bid two spades and East passed, South knew that all the three of spades and declarer over-ruffed with five.

Now, without the informative double, declarer probably would have picked up the outstanding trumps and played for a 3-3 break in clubs. But with the information indicated by the double, South played all his trumps, forcing West to make two discards. He could not let go a club, so he discarded two hearts, leaving the blank king of hearts in his hand.

Declarer now played ace, king and queen of clubs, and on the third club East showed out. South now had an exact count on the West hand. He knew that West had originally held three hearts, and he should have had the king to make the informative double. As he had already discarded two hearts, he must now be down to the blank king. Therefore, declarer led the ace of hearts, picked up the king, and the queen was good.
